The “Peace Generation” Youth Forum

In today's world, it is becoming more and more obvious that if a change is going to occur, it has to start at the core- with our youth. And young people are becoming increasingly aware that they want to take their future into their own hands.

With the ever expanding communications technology, it is now possible for people to connect with each other across the globe. As a part of SEASON FOR NONVIOLENCE this year, we would like to offer your Youth Groups a chance to connect and collaborate in an environment with which they are familiar and proficient: the internet.

We ask you to encourage your youth to log on to peacegeneration.ning.com and create a profile for themselves. From there, they can participate in discussions about peace and nonviolence projects, share ideas, and find out what others their age are doing to contribute to a more peaceful and just society.

On this site, young people will learn about Season for Nonviolence, cast their “Vote4Peace”, participate in and the Acts of Kindness program, find out about events going on around the world, create and join groups in their own local cities, and view relevant video documentaries.

TOOLS AVAILABLE

- Discussion Forum: Moderated forum for introducing projects, sharing ideas, and collaborating within the Season for Nonviolence.
- Groups: Ability to form and join groups based on location or other parameters. Useful for initiating projects and sharing information within a specific youth group.
- Photos and Videos The ability to share photos and videos adds to the feeling of community. AGNT will upload inspirational videos relevant to SNV.
- Event Calendar The calendar makes it easy to update and find information on events going on throughout the network.
- Story Bank: A direct link to the Acts of Kindness “StoryBank” and all information about this new program for SNV 2009.
